About me

I am a dynamic and results-driven individual from Hyderabad with strong communication skills and expertise in Excel and business analysis. I have a keen ability to assess situations, make data-driven decisions, and adapt to changing business needs. My goal is to climb to a top position in the industry over the next few years by continuously learning, improving, and contributing to business success. With a strategic mindset and a problem-solving approach, I am eager to bring value to an innovative and growth-oriented organization.

As a fresher, my agenda is packed with enthusiasm to apply my technical skills in a real-world setting, particularly in a role where data-driven business analysis is at the forefront. I am passionate about uncovering insights that help businesses thrive and decisions that align with strategic goals.

If you're in the business or tech industry and believe in mentorship and collaborative growth, let's connect! 🌟 I'm excited to bring my background in analytics and programming to your team and learn alongside the best.
